A reappraisal of the actions of omega-conotoxin GVIA on mouse vas deferens smooth muscle. The effects of [alpha-Cys-Tyr1,O-Tyr2,OMe3,5-Leu6]conotoxin GVIA (N(Cys-1OMe3,5-Leu6)GVIA) on Ca(2+)- and Na(+) -dependent spontaneous and K(+) -induced contractions of mouse vas deferens smooth muscle were evaluated and compared to the effects of N(Cys-1OMe3,5-Leu6)SNX-482 (N(Cys-1OMe3,5-Leu6)SNX), a derivative of GVIA, to test the hypothesis that the Cys-1 position is a bioactive site for conotoxin action. Our results showed that N(Cys-1OMe3,5-Leu6)GVIA was a potent antagonist at mouse vas deferens smooth muscle with an IC(50) value of 85 nM and an agonist at the same dose of N(Cys-1OMe3,5-Leu6)SNX at similar contractile levels. N(Cys-1OMe3,5-Leu6)GVIA inhibited the high K(+) -induced contractions more potently than the N(Cys-1OMe3,5-Leu6)SNX-induced contractions and the Ca(2+)-induced contractions. However, N(
